

What skills can graduates gain?

Through studying a degree in European and European Union Studies, graduates develop a valuable set of skills and competencies. These can include:

- Developing attitudes of intellectual curiosity
- Written expression and sound logic in the development of a written argument
- Presentation and clarity in oral expression
- Research, analytical and critical thinking
- Bibliographical referencing
- Discussion of ideas and listening to others
- Information management.

Practise your skills at work or in Europe

Applied learning opportunities are available through:

- Internships with potential employers
- Immerse experiences in European languages and cultures, including study exchange partnership programmes with universities in France, Germany, Sweden, Ireland and Spain.
- These experiences can deepen graduates' skillset, working knowledge, and employability.

What do employers look for?

Many employers look for generic skills such as communication, client/customer-focus, bicultural competence, cultural awareness, teamwork and initiative.

With technology, globalisation, and other drivers changing society, skills such as resilience, problem solving, and adaptability are important.

Skills that are likely to grow in importance include analytical and creative thinking, systems thinking, technological literacy, AI and big data.*

Further study options

European and European Union Studies graduates can progress into higher programmes, from honours through to master's and PhD level (in European Studies). These degrees offer a chance to conduct independent research.

A taught Master of European Union Studies is available at UC, as are master's in Policy and Governance, and International Relations and Diplomacy. Graduates may transition into a career through additional training e.g. in Teaching and Learning, Journalism or Business.

Further study may facilitate career benefits such as specialist skills, entry into a specific occupation, higher starting salary, faster progression rate, and advanced research capability.

It is important to determine which, if any, further study options align with future career aspirations.

I previously worked on the (now settled) claims for Librarians and Library Assistants and Science Technicians in schools.

My mahi involves conducting interviews with claimant and comparator workforce groups to collect data, and then analysing the data to determine if the claimant group's work is undervalued on the basis of gender.

What have been your highlights so far in your career journey?

I love that my job enables me to talk to lots of different people about their mahi. I learn
