There are three articles in English: the, a and an. They precede and provide information about nouns and noun phrases (namely, about people, places, things or concepts). This handout contains some common usages, but there are many exceptions that must be noted and memorised over time.

The definite article: the

The can be used with singular, plural, countable, and uncountable (or mass) nouns. 1 Use the when referring to something specific that your audience will recognise, for example:

Nouns that have been mentioned previously, or are clearly related to something mentioned previously	The party featured a band and a catered meal. The band was excellent, but the food was gone by nine!
Cases where the context indicates clearly which thing is being referred to	Mum, can I borrow the car? The Prime Minister is concerned about child poverty.
	The results of the investigation
Organisation names that contain a generic word such as organisation, commission or foundation <sup>2</sup>	The Earthquake Commission, the Breast Cancer Foundation
Country or regional names that contain a generic word, (e.g., republic, kingdom or state/states) or have a plural form <sup>2</sup>	The Czech Republic, the United Kingdom, the South Island, the Philippines, the State of Tasmania, the United States
Geographical features such as rivers, oceans, mountain ranges and deserts where the name includes the specific feature <sup>2</sup>	The Rakaia River, the Pacific Ocean, the Rocky Mountains, the Sahara Desert, the Tararua Ranges
Categories or classifications	The moa (an entire species), the human brain (a type of organ/body part shared by all people)
A unique person, place or thing	The sun, the Pope, the International Space Station, the NZ dollar, the Reihana whanau (family), the internet
Ordinal numbers (first, second, etc.) and superlatives (the tallest, the best, etc.)	The first test is always the hardest.
Plural nouns preceded by "of"	Most/all/none/many of the classes were interesting.
Centuries and decades <sup>3</sup>	The 19th century, the 1960s

Usage for some common place nouns (e.g., school, university, hospital, prison, church)
When referring to the physical location, use the.	There's a new auditorium at the school.
When referring to these places in the context of someone's role there, use zero article.	I'm going to school at 7.30 today (likely to be said by a student or staff member of the school)
